AgriLife to host workshops to help landowners

Farmers, ranchers and rural landowners are invited to participate in Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service's landowner workshop—Owning

Your Piece of Texas.
The workshop aims to cover many questions farmers, ranchers and rural landowners may have and will provide guidance on key legal issues related to their property. "There are a number of legal issues that can impact rural landowners and agricultural producers in Texas," said Tiffany Dowell-Lashmet, J.D., AgriLife Extension agriculture law specialist. "This course is designed to help them be aware of the issues that could arise and have an idea of the law related to these issues. Whether someone has owned land for generations or just purchased their first place, this course will be useful."

The day-long workshops will cover topics such as landowner liability, fence law, water law, eminent domain and more.

Dates and locations for the 2023 workshops are:

- April 23 in San Angelo
- Week of Aug. 28 (exact date TBD) in San Marcos

Registration for the workshop is $75 and can be completed online.

Registration details for the remaining workshops will be available at a later date.

All attendees will receive a hard copy of the Owning Your Piece of Texas: Top Laws Texas Landowners Need to Know handbook.

The Owning Your Piece of Texas program, as well as others offered by AgriLife, are available online in self-paced courses at agrilifelearn.tamu.edu.

O.H. Ivie doubles down with pair of ShareLunkers

Ivie Reservoir continued its reign as a top largemouth bass lake in the world Monday night when it produced not one but two Legacy Class ShareLunkers. The entries were the second and third overall of the 2024 Toyota ShareLunker collection season following J.B. Thomas Reservoir's first ever Legacy Class lunker last Wednesday.

Lane Olson of Mineola landed 13.26-pound ShareLunker 652, followed shortly thereafter by Bobby Waldon, also of Mineola, with 14.75-pound ShareLunker 653. O.H. Ivie has accounted for 41 Legacy Class ShareLunkers over the past four collection seasons, including 15 in 2023 alone.
