Coke County Water Supply Corporation awarded grant

The Texas Water Resources Institute (TWRI) announced a grant award to the Coke County Water Supply Corporation (CCWSC) for the development of a water conservation program. The grant will be used to fund the development of a water conservation program for the CCWSC. The program will include the installation of water-saving devices, the implementation of water conservation practices, and the development of a water conservation plan. The grant is part of the TWRI's efforts to promote water conservation in rural areas of Texas.

SPECIAL OIL & GAS SECTION

Workover Rig Southeast of Robert Lee

The workover rig is currently operating in the southeast part of the county. The rig is used to maintain and improve the production of existing wells. The workover process involves the removal of the old casing and the installation of a new casing. The new casing is then cemented in place. The workover process is a complex and time-consuming one. It requires the use of specialized equipment and skilled workers. The workover process is essential for the continued production of oil and gas in the area.
