Remember, it only takes a second for one person to make a big mess of things. Paris is a beautiful city. I have been there as a teenager and as an 'older' teenager. I can tell you there is so much to do, so much to see, and so much to soak up in that city. The Seine River, where the opening ceremonies will be held, is less than sterile. I know the organizers have gone the extra mile to make this rolling biology project safer, but I feel that may not be enough to ensure the safety of the swimmers competing in that 'clean' river. Think of swimmers jumping into the [you name the nasty river] and consider if you would swim in that river, even if it was said to have been cleaned and made safe. That is the way I feel about the Seine in Paris. I have not seen it recently, but, knowing the way the French operate, and the history of the Seine, that river is still needing repair. I wish the swimmers and all the athletes good luck. It will be interesting to see how things progress during the games. I hope there are no man-made or natural disruptions to the games. Channel Change. I went to the winter Olympics as a spectator when I was I high school. I had some really great experiences in Grenoble and on the way to Grenoble. I will tell you about my trip next week. Keep praying for rains to fall in abundance upon our land.

The Veteran Farmer Award Excellence is a new recognition program launched by the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) with support from Farm Credit.

AFBF and Farm Credit will recognize one individual who has served or is currently serving in the U.S. military and is actively involved in agriculture and their community. Applicants will be evaluated based on excellence in farming and community impact.

The award winner will receive $10,000 plus reimbursement of up to $5,000 in travel and other expenses incurred for the recipient and a guest to attend the American Farm Bureau Convention in San Antonio Jan.

"This award elevates and celebrates those who have served our country and continue to do so through their involvement in agriculture and communities," AFBF President Zippy Duvall said. "Their sacrifices make it possible for us to enjoy the freedoms we have in our country, and they should all know how much we value and appreciate them."

Veterans or service members may apply for the award online through Aug. 30.

The application consists of both short-answer and essay questions covering two main focus areas: how the applicant has exhibited excellence in farming or agriculture and how the applicant has impacted their community in a positive way.

Applications for the award submitted on behalf of worthy recipients also will be considered. If chosen, however, the recipient be willing to
